The Early Order Gets the cream of the crop. We do our utmost to fill all orders with the variety and size desired. If you order early we will have a much better chance to give you exactly what you want. Of course, late orders will receive as much attention, but as it is impossible to have unlimited quantities of all stock, we might not be able to fill your order in varieties or sizes requested. We ask permission, should this happen, to substitute equal or greater value in a size larger or smaller, or a very similar variety. Naming a second choice would help in this case. If you do not desire substitution in any event, please so state on your order.

For Convenience in Ordering. A handy order blank is sent in each catalog for your use. If you write, or print, your name and address plainly and fill out the space for size, number desired, and price, there will be no mistake made in filling your order, and it will be shipped to you on time.

When ordering, each item should be not less than 10c, and the minimum total acceptable order is $1.00.

Cultural Directions, in a complete booklet, will be enclosed with each order. It will give you information and instructions on how to have prize-winning bulbs and flowers.

Size of Bulb. Large and medium-size bulb prices are quoted, with the complete description of each variety, because we believe primarily you are interested in blooming-size bulbs. Large bulbs, 1 1/4" and up, will produce a true spike the first year; medium-size bulbs 3/4" to 1 1/4", in almost every variety, will bloom the first year, though the spikes may not be quite as large and strong as those from large bulbs.

We believe, too, that some of you may be interested in small and bulblet-size corms, which seldom bloom the first year, but are lower priced, and will increase to blooming-size stock. For your convenience, we have reprinted a concise list of our varieties, in the back of the book, and added prices on small bulbs and bulblets.

Terms. We recommend and desire your sending payment with your order, though, if you do wish shipment sent C.O.D., the post office collection fee will be added to your bill. Shipping charges on all retail orders in the United States will be prepaid by us.

In enclosing payment, for safety's sake, it is best to use a Post Office Money-Order or a personal check. In any case, if you do not receive a notice that your order has been accepted within 15 days after sending it, please notify us at once and proper steps will be taken to find it.

Orders will not be accepted on small bulbs and bulblets after April 15, 1937.

Extra! Extra! We always add either a generous over-count or blooming-size stock in something new and different as a premium. The amount of your order necessarily will determine how liberal we can be.

Where to Put What. The class each variety belongs in is rather difficult to determine, so for our gladiolus enthusiasts' convenience, we are listing after the name of each variety the class as to color and size in which that variety belongs at a gladiolus show.

(Ex.) signifies Exhibition class, and (Dec.) Decorative class. This merely divides the varieties as to flower size, not beauty—the Exhibition type including the largest flowering gladiolus, and the Decorative a bit smaller, each including many lovely varieties. Varieties marked (New) are recent originations and have not as yet been classified by the American Gladiolus Society.

Why Not Belong to several Gladiolus Societies? It is one of the requisites to becoming a gladiolus fan. Membership in two such societies as the American Gladiolus Society, Goshen, Indiana, and the New England Gladiolus Society, Oakdale, Mass., will be well worth your investment. For your yearly dues of $2.00 to the A.G.S., you receive their monthly publication, Gladiolus Review, and for $1.00 to the N.E.G.S., a yearly gladiolus book, both being very worth while.

Gladiolus Popularity. Not alone should the ever-increasing popularity of the gladiolus be credited to the many societies, but a great deal to the flower itself and to the hybridizers who have produced such a galaxy of colors and variation in sizes. Varieties that grow only a few inches tall to those giants as high as eight feet, varieties with small, delicate and lacinated blooms to those with massive florets should include something to suit anyone's taste.

Your Flower-Loving Friends might be interested in receiving a copy of this catalog. If so, kindly return the order blank, giving their names and addresses, and if you enclose an order, there will be an extra bulb or two for you.

May Our Catalog and Wentworth Gardens be of Service to You.
